Description:

Oversize Antique Turkish Sivas Rug 20'2 x 28'. Sivas, situated in central Anatolia, has long been recognized for its distinctive contribution to the weaving traditions of Turkey. The city's workshops are particularly noted for producing rugs that exhibit refined interpretations of Persian designs, most notably those associated with Tabriz. Characterized by light tonal palettes and a high level of technical execution, these works are comparatively rare yet highly valued in textile studies. Their enduring appeal lies in both their decorative sophistication and their reliance on the finest available materials, which together underscore Sivas's role as a cultural bridge between Anatolian and Persian artistic traditions.
