Description:

An extremely subtle and restrained palette characterizes this northwest Persian town carpet, probably the creation of the firm Ziegler from Manchester, England. The all-over herati pattern is rendered in a softly colored taupe and ivory combination, with touches of light blue. The pattern passes under the color matching equally muted main border of various palmettes and various leaves. The general effect is that of a minimalist carpet totally in harmony with contemporary decorating trends emphasizing light colors, spacious placement of furniture, and a generally uncluttered room setting. The condition is quite good for the age and the weave is slightly finer than the usual run of Ziegler Mahal carpets.
