Description:

Antique Persian Malayer Runner 5'3 x 12'2. Malayer, located just east of Hamadan in northwest Iran, has long been a center for finely woven tribal and village rugs. While often grouped under the Hamadan umbrella, Malayer rugs distinguish themselves through tighter weaves, more complex patterns, and a delicate touch in color composition. This piece exemplifies that legacy. It's a rare find—suited as much to a contemporary gallery setting as it is to a well-appointed traditional home. Colors: interchanging taupe gray ground/ivory/blues/terracotta.
